(2) Teton Advisors, Inc. Under this same arrangement, the Convertible Securities Fund will carry forward, for a period not to exceed three years from the date that an amount is waived, any fees in excess of the expense limitation and repay the Adviser such amount provided the Convertible Securities Fund is able to do so without exceeding the lesser of (1) the expense limit in effect at the time of the waiver or reimbursement, as applicable, or (2) the expense limit in effect at the time of recoupment. The fee waiver and/or expense reimbursement arrangement will continue until at least January 31, 2018 (for Class T shares, for at least one year from the commencement of offering of Class T shares) and may not be terminated by the Fund or the Adviser before such time. Thereafter, this arrangement may only be terminated or amended to increase the expense cap as of January 31 of each calendar year, provided that in the case of a termination by the Adviser, the Adviser will provide the Board with written notice of its intention to terminate the arrangement prior to the expiration of its then current term.

Expense Example

This example is intended to help you compare the cost of investing in the Convertible Securities Fund with the cost of investing in other mutual funds.

The example assumes that you invest $10,000 in the Convertible Securities Fund for the time periods indicated and then redeem all of your shares at the end of those periods. The example also assumes that your investment has a 5% return each year and that the Convertible Securities Fund's operating expenses remain the same (taking into account the expense limitation for one year). Although your actual costs may be higher or lower, based on these assumptions your costs would be:

	1 Year	3 Years	5 Years	10 Years
Class AAA Shares	$117	$ 699	$1,308	$2,954
Class A Shares	$537	$1,144	$1,775	$3,468
Class C Shares	$293	$ 923	$1,676	$3,660
Class I Shares	$ 92	$ 623	$1,182	$2,706
Class T Shares	$364	$ 932	$1,525	$3,130

You would pay the following expenses if you did not redeem your shares of the Convertible Securities Fund:

	1 Year	3 Years	5 Years	10 Years
Class AAA Shares	$117	$ 699	$1,308	$2,954
Class A Shares	$537	$1,144	$1,775	$3,468
Class C Shares	$193	$ 923	$1,676	$3,660
Class I Shares	$ 92	$ 623	$1,182	$2,706
Class T Shares	$364	$ 932	$1,525	$3,130

Portfolio Turnover

The Convertible Securities Fund pays transaction costs, such as commissions, when it buys and sells securities (or "turns over" its portfolio). A higher portfolio turnover rate may indicate higher transaction costs and may result in higher taxes when the Convertible Securities Fund's shares are held in a taxable account. These costs, which are not reflected in the annual fund operating expenses or in the example, affect the Convertible Securities Fund's performance. During the most recent fiscal year, the Convertible Securities Fund's portfolio turnover rate was 20% of the average value of its portfolio.

Principal Investment Strategies

The Convertible Securities Fund invests, under normal circumstances, at least 80% of its net assets in convertible securities, and in derivatives and other instruments that have economic characteristics similar to such securities. The Convertible Securities Fund may invest in securities of any market capitalization or credit quality, and may from time to time invest a significant amount of its assets in securities of smaller companies.

The Convertible Securities Fund may invest up to 20% of its net assets in common stocks, non-convertible preferred stocks, and non-convertible fixed income securities.

The Convertible Securities Fund may also invest in non-convertible debt securities rated below investment grade (rated Ba or below by Moody's, or BB or below by S&P or Fitch, or if unrated, determined by the Adviser to be of comparable quality), within the above 20% limitation. The Convertible Securities Fund may also invest in securities issued by the U.S. government and its agencies and instrumentalities.

The Convertible Securities Fund may invest in illiquid or thinly traded securities, subject to any limitations described in the prospectus and/or Statement of Additional Information. The Convertible Securities Fund may also invest in securities that are eligible for resale under Rule 144A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.

The Convertible Securities Fund may invest up to 20% of its net assets in foreign securities, including securities of issuers located in emerging markets countries (i.e., those that are in the initial stages of their industrial cycles), non-U.S. dollar denominated securities, and depositary receipts. This percentage limitation, however, does not apply to securities of foreign companies that are listed in the United States on a national securities exchange.

By investing in convertible securities, the Convertible Securities Fund seeks the opportunity to participate in the capital appreciation of underlying stocks, while at the same time relying on the fixed income aspect of the convertible securities to provide current income and reduced price volatility, which can limit the risk of loss in a down equity market.

In buying and selling securities for the Convertible Securities Fund, the Adviser relies on fundamental analysis, which involves a bottom-up assessment of a company's potential for success in light of factors including its financial condition, earnings outlook, strategy, management, industry position, and economic and market conditions. The portfolio managers may consider selling a particular security when the portfolio managers perceive a change in company fundamentals, a decline in relative attractiveness to other issues, and/or a decline in industry fundamentals, or if any of the original reasons for purchase have materially changed.

The portfolio managers evaluate each security's investment characteristics as a fixed income instrument as well as its potential for capital appreciation. Under normal market conditions, the portfolio managers utilize this strategy to seek to capture approximately 60% to 80% of the upside performance of the underlying equities with 50% or less of the downside exposure.

The Convertible Securities Fund may utilize foreign currency exchange contracts, options, stock index futures contracts, warrants, and other derivative instruments. In response to adverse market, economic, political or other conditions, the Convertible Securities Fund may deviate from its principal strategies by making temporary investments of some or all of its assets in high-quality fixed income securities, cash and cash equivalents. The Convertible Securities Fund may not achieve its investment objective when it does so.

While the Convertible Securities Fund does not concentrate in any one industry, from time to time, based on economic conditions, it may make significant investments in certain sectors.

Principal Risks:

You may want to invest in the Fund if:

- you are a long term investor
- you seek a high level of current income as well as growth of capital

The Convertible Securities Fund's share price will fluctuate with changes in the market value of the Convertible Securities Fund's portfolio securities and changes in prevailing interest rates. Your investment in the Convertible Securities Fund is not guaranteed; you may lose money by investing in the Convertible Securities Fund. When you sell Convertible Securities Fund shares, they may be worth more or less than what you paid for them.

Investing in the Convertible Securities Fund involves the following risks:

- Convertible Securities Risk. Convertible securities provide higher yields than the underlying common stock, but generally offer lower yields than nonconvertible securities of similar quality. The value of convertible securities fluctuates in relation to changes in interest rates and, in addition, fluctuates in relation to the underlying common stock.
- Credit Risk. The Convertible Securities Fund's investments are subject to the risk that issuers and/or counterparties will fail to make payments when due or default completely. Prices of the Convertible Securities Fund's investments may be adversely affected if any of the issuers or counterparties it is invested in are subject to an actual or perceived deterioration in their credit quality. Credit spreads may increase, which may reduce the market values of the Convertible Securities Fund's securities. Credit spread risk is the risk that economic and market conditions or any actual or perceived credit deterioration may lead to an increase in the credit spreads (i.e., the difference in yield between two securities of similar maturity but different credit quality) and a decline in price of the issuer's securities.

- Equity Market Risk. The price of equity securities may rise or fall because of changes in the broad market or changes in a company's financial condition, sometimes rapidly or unpredictably. These price movements may result from factors affecting individual companies, sectors or industries selected for the Convertible Securities Fund's portfolio or the securities market as a whole, such as changes in economic or political conditions. When the value of the Convertible Securities Fund's securities goes down, your investment in the Convertible Securities Fund decreases in value.
- Foreign Securities Risk. Investments in foreign securities involve risks relating to political, social, and economic developments abroad, as well as risks resulting from the differences between the regulations to which U.S. and foreign issuers and markets are subject. These risks include expropriation, differing accounting and disclosure standards, currency exchange risks, settlement difficulties, market illiquidity, difficulties enforcing legal rights, and greater transaction costs. These risks are more pronounced in the securities of companies located in emerging markets.
- High Yield Securities Risk. The Convertible Securities Fund may invest in higher yielding, lower rated bonds, commonly called "junk bonds". Bonds that are rated Ba or below by Moody's, or BB or below by S&P or Fitch, or if unrated, determined by the Adviser to be of comparable quality, are generally considered to be high yield bonds. These high yield bonds are subject to greater risks than lower yielding, higher rated debt securities. As a result, the Convertible Securities Fund may experience losses associated with its holdings of high yield securities.
- Interest Rate Risk. The Convertible Securities Fund's investments in fixed income securities will change in value based on changes in interest rates. If rates increase, the value of these investments generally declines. Securities with greater interest rate sensitivity and longer maturities generally are subject to greater fluctuations in value. The Convertible Securities Fund may invest in variable and floating rate securities. Although these instruments are generally less sensitive to interest rate changes than fixed rate instruments, the value of variable and floating rate securities may decline if their interest rates do not rise as quickly, or as much, as general interest rates. Given the historically low interest rate environment, risks associated with rising rates are heightened.
- Management Risk. If the portfolio manager is incorrect in her assessment of the growth prospects of the securities the Convertible Securities Fund holds, then the value of the Convertible Securities Fund's shares may decline.
- Small-Cap Company Risk. Although small-cap companies may offer greater potential for capital appreciation than larger companies, investing in securities of small-cap companies may involve greater risks than investing in larger, more established issuers. Small-cap companies generally have limited product lines, markets, and financial resources. Their securities may trade less frequently and in more limited volume than the securities of larger, more established companies. Also, small-cap companies are typically subject to greater changes in earnings and business prospects than larger companies. Consequently, small-cap company stock prices tend to rise and fall in value more than other stocks.

* Effective October 1, 2016, the Fund changed its name to Teton Convertible Securities Fund and as a result, the Fund's new index was selected as its use is more closely aligned with the Fund's investment process and style. The Adviser intends to remove the Lipper Equity Income Funds Average in the future.

The returns shown for Class I shares prior to its actual inception date are those of the Class A shares of the Convertible Securities Fund. No returns are shown for Class T shares since Class T shares were not offered prior to the date of this prospectus. All classes of the Convertible Securities Fund would have substantially similar annual returns because the shares are invested in the same portfolio of securities and the annual returns would differ only to the extent that the classes do not have the same expenses.

After-tax returns are calculated using the historical highest individual federal marginal income tax rates and do not reflect the impact of state and local taxes. In some instances, the “Return After Taxes on Distributions and Sale of Fund Shares” may be greater than “Return Before Taxes” because the investor is assumed to be able to use the capital loss from the sale of Convertible Securities Fund shares to offset other taxable gains. Actual after-tax returns depend on the investor’s tax situation and may differ from those shown. After-tax returns shown are not relevant to investors who hold their Convertible Securities Fund shares through tax-deferred arrangements, such as 401(k) plans or individual retirement accounts, including “Roth” IRAs and SEP IRAs (collectively “IRAs”).
